THE BISKITS ARE GONE.

On my trip to the west, I got within a few miles of Fort Scott, Kansas, I jumped out of the covered wagon, and said to the man by the side of the road, Where is the state line? He said back there about a quarter of a mile. I went back and said Pa, the biskits are gone. He said get in this wagon! I said Pa the biskits are gone, he said get in this wagon, I got in that wagon, I said Pa you have been misinformed by the Capitalist Papers, as to the wheat industry of Kansas. I expected to find biskits strewn along the State Line, of course I wuz young that is not old, very young, so you see pa's experience wuz also. We went and got to Fort Scott at last it is a magnificent little town, especially some features there. The streets took pa's eye I think both eyes, as to the diamond shaped streets. And when we arrived proper Pa jumped out of the wagon, bought and brought to the covered wagon two pads for Fannie and Dollie. I said Pa who is that talking up there in that hall? He said I don't know. The speaker was talking loud and forcible. I said is that Daniel Webster talking, Pa said you know Daniel Webster is dead, Oh, yes, I would have said Bill Bryan if he had been prominent at that time. We went on and on. I said to Pa, in the heart of the town what branch is this, he says this is not a branch. This is the Mamoton River. We drove to the out-skirts of the town in order to get out of town, down a hill and I think up a hill to my best recollekshun if we hadn't we wouldn't have never gotten back on the level, and past a place where I guess they made jugs, I said what is that? Pa said he didn't know and laughed, well I said I want to know. Further on I jumped out of the wagon and asked the boy if we could water the team he says yes, I motioned to the wagon Pa responded to unhitch, I didn't have time to help I was getting information the boy says where are you going I says to Kansas. He says you are in Kansas now, Is that so I said, Oh yes to Commanche Kansas I mean. He said what do you want to go out there for I said for opportunity, He said it is too dry out there for anything you had better go back to Missouri. I said why? He said they only raise cattle and they are short girted. I said I'll be dogged on and on we traveled guess thru a town of one store. No flies on that town now, grewed so fast that the gasoline fans I mean turned by gasoline engines have blowed them back into Missouri. All got sick no we didn't Pa got sick what on alkili water of course, finally he got too sick to travel any further. I said turn back we will make a mistake in risking our lives any further. I hate to as we are learning so fast and much, but health is worth more than information. I tell you sir, the horses would not drink the water then how would you expect us to drink it and especially keep well on our first trip out of Missouri. Kum back to Missouri waited a few years and I took the Kansas fever so hard that my ears flopped. How do you know they did? Because they used to tell me that I would be a good telegraf operator therefore my ears flopped. Several years afterwards I concluded to go to Sumner County Kansas I went to a certain town on the main line or a trunk I don't remember which before I started I went into Smiths Restorent or Caffy maybe it was a grocery store, anyway I got all of the cheese I could eat for a couple of days. I thought I would eat som Sal-omn and sardenes. I went to the depot said mister, are you the depot man? he said yes, I says I want to git a ticket to a certain town in Southern Kansas. I don't know where it is, I said I do, he said have you been there no have you seen the town? Yes you said you have not been there how do you know it if you have not been there then. In the name of common sense how have you seen it if you have not been there, I says don't you know that you can draw imaginary lines, he said no, I says I do, how? I says I have seen it on the map. What is the fare mister depot man? About eleven dollars. Steep, aint it, he said how do you know? I said from the map. How long have you been here mister depot man? Seventeen years. well I don't know how to send you, I says if you don't I don't. Took me into anty room showed me something on the wall, I no more than waited till he got out of the room I hollered loud Oh depot man. He come, he said I don't know how to send you he began to change his mind about me by this time he said I will send you to a certain town and then you will have time to make up your mind which way you want to go from there. I seen something that took my eye I think both eyes till this day so did the cheese.

I met up with a ice man on the train he said where are you going, I says to Kansas. Was you ever there before? I says possibly, he got information didn't he. The ice man was going south in April I said where are you from? He said Iowa I says you are wise he didn't ask me.

If he had do you know what I was going to say, owing to the cold weather up north. He said he didn't like my part of the country of course I wished to know why, he said he had been down to see one of my very distant n-bers I knowed him when I meet him in the county convention every two or four years he wuz on the same side of politicks that I am. He said he didn't like my country and keep saying it finally I says why? he said because he chilled, how long did you stay my friend? He said over night.

Was he not wise going south to make ice in the spring of the year. I arrived in a good town I monkied around till dark and concluded I would eat some sammons and sardenes as I did not have any with me, I wuz a terrible sammon and sardene eater. Santered into a store I says have you any sammons clerk? He said yes. Fix em up. He said we don't fix them up. I said sardenes then he said we don't fix them up I thought not much of it. I walked into another store. Clerk said something? Yes. What is it? I said some sardenes fixed up.

Clerk said we don't fix them up. I told him sammons then fix em up. I said in Missouri they fix em up. Oh this is Kansas is it not. Mind you I hadn't anything but cheese for a couple of days. I went down to the depot looking for my grip, now I have learned to call it in this respect or attitude, telescope or in the other attitude of suit case I believe or soop case I mean grip. I had with me what I am speaking of, I looked at derricks and oil wells, Why was I fooled in the meal is because there wuz I supposed nothing to eat but oil and gas. I look at oil running out of tanks what do you think I look with, telescope no, What then, my eyes. I had several people looking for my grip a nigger porter found it he said in the waiting room I was in a fix appearantly for a hour and a half what do you think I had in the grip, Stocks and bonds? No, I could not get stocks and bonds in my grip what was it, fashion? No, not that kind I told that porter that grip was not mine and time for me to laugh, I says I have it with me he said where is it, I pointed to my wrist.

I landed in a good town you remember I started from Missouri in April still April night. Upon my arrival in the town at that time the banner county for wheat I asked ten thousand questions I think about the wheat belt before daylight. Everyone had their eye upon me would keep asking me questions and where I was from, of course I would keep telling them. When I got off the train I thought would walk into I don't know what it was walking in a circle I said what do you charge it was a drummers place I am satisfied now that it wuz he responded with a price of fifty cents that took my breath for awhile or apparently so. I said I have heart failure and into the open air I went, I says look out the doctor prescribed me to go fast when I felt ailed, they got out of my way and I did go fast, happened to run up to a hotel I later found they called it. I said mister I want to stay all night and he said walk in He said what's the matter? I says I have been running, he said what for? I said I don't know what they call it in Kansas but they call it that in Missouri. He said no one wuz after you why did you run.

I said I was running away with fifty cents don't you think it was worth running for. I went to a grocery store went in and the merchant and clerk was leaving and asked me if there was something they could do for me, I told them a great deal. I said I want five cents worth of cheese and crackers. I am awful hungry. I eat them with an up-to-date expression, eager to know where I was from. I said from Missouri. Train, where to the train. I said Kansas. Where are you from to Kansas.

I said Oh I understand you now where then the old country what old country, which one England or Germany? I said Missouri. They laughed plentifully. The clerk said that is what I thought. I said so did I. I inquired for the copper king. They said he was out west. I said aint this out west? I got in with the court next morning. I mean we call it circuit court in Missouri as a speculative medium. Didn't I look it? I inquired for habitation. They informed me they didn't know what I meant. I responded where people are inhabited or gathered to gather annually not health resortively said they were inhabited. I didn't know it I says I didn't know it. I monkied around in Kansas six months, was in Northern Kansas I guess, up in another district when I learned something. When I learned through loafing in a store not a joint said there is one thing I don't like out west and the merchant responded without hesitancy said what's that? Well I says I used to like back in Missouri sammons and sardenes better than a hog does slop we have them here. I said fix em up then, I have starved almost six solid months think of it mister merchant. He said I can't cook, my wife and daughter is up north on a visit, I said good gracious I don't want them cooked, merely want you to cut the can open, I don't carry a knife, pour them in a bowl or dish so they won't kill me, and put a little vinegar on. Why he responded is that what you call fixing them up? Sure it is I says. Why I said I very often fix them up that way for the boys if that is what you call them fixed up. I said that is what we call fixed up in Missouri. Alright, cut the can open, pour into the bowl and put a little vinegar on, not too much now. I will tell you when to stop. I eat and eat I don't know how many cans of course not large ones. I had an inviting capacity for same I said they are the best I have eat for six months, and the last I have eat too. It took six months to learn how to ask for them so I could get them fixed up. I am now a vegetarian.

I went into Arkansas once from the west along the road in the West at a certain town on the Pacific. There was an awful pretty girl came through the train and sat down beside me. Why? Because there wuz no other seat in the coach. She began chatting and I began gabbing. I told her I was almost ashamed of my nationality. She said she was not ashamed of hers she said I am a Norwegian and proud of it. I said Oh you are with a sigh. She said yes I am a Norwegian and proud of it. I said to her your country and my country lie up there side by side. They was into controversy but in harmony with each other now. I told her that I didn't know what a blond was. She said I will tell you. I said tell me then. She described it as this. A tall light complected stalwart staturally looking person with blue eyes and light hair.

Well I says then I did not know until you informed me. I have heard of a bluenette. What is a bluenette? She said you mean a brunette. Yes mam I mean a brunette. She said you mean a brunette. Yes mam what's the difference between a bluenette and a blond? She informed me the difference is that the bluenette is a shade dark.

I took a trip down through Oklahoma as appeared to me in about the eastern northern or central southern portion of Oklahoma. When we got to a town called Gore wuz. No one answered I elevated my voice another time and two times again. I went back into the coach and said to the man I was acquainted with, say this town seems to be named after Senator Gore. He said yes. I said has it not changed its name. He said what do you mean? I said from the appearance of things it would have to. He said why. Because it's older than Gore's prominence. I landed in Arkansas once and the first thing I noticed was the Arkansas River. Do you know what the Boston Mountains reminded me of the first time I went through them? The Cumberland Mountains in Tennessee.

You have heard how they do in Arkansas here is one way. I was down at the depot one night about eleven thirty. I guess I was on the outside of the depot in strawberry time. I noticed something very queer on the inside of the depot through the winders in the waiting room. There was seven children of various ages all singularly born, and all but their mother stretched out a sleep on the floor. Pretty soon a man came down with something in his arms. Can you guess what it was?

He said where are you frum? I says from Missouri.

That struck him harmoniously and we was acquainted in a jiffy. He said I am going to feed these bananas to them there children in the morning. It is cheaper. I have seven of them in the depot there. I said that is what I thought. and he said he would after me questioning him as to appliance of them how he would feed? He said he would count them out. I said like feeding a horse corn? He said yes. Well mister, will you equate? He said what do you mean? How do you do, give same regardless of age? No, he said, you don't feed a colt as many ears as you do a growed up horse, do you? No I said. I said much obliged for the information my friend. I will see you in the morning, bed time for me. Say I want to say it was a sight to me.

While I was down in Arkansas there was a family came over from an adjoining county and brought a hog crated in a wagon larteded it out and when they got thru harvesting strawberries loaded it up and took it home with them.

The nigger don't think any more of going to the pen in the south than we do of going to court in a civil suit.

I used to have a hankering for working in a store. I tried and tried and finally hired to my sorrow. Finally I succeeded in obtaining a position as Clerk I walked into a store and bought a pair of heavy overshoes did not know what store it wuz, the merchant stepped up and asked me if anything I wanted to buy? I told him I wanted to look at a overcoat. He tried to sell me a light overcoat in the dead of winter in a northern zone, not only that but the latest cut. He was making poor success with the sale so he called another one of the firm at hand he took charge of me that made me suspishus. I came within seventyfive cents of dealing. I made a mistake as I usually do and I told him I didn't know as to value or quality then he tried to lead me to believe I ought to take his word for the cloth after the sale. He failed to make the deal and I was walking out. It looks like you was pretty busy in here And he said he was and wanted to hire a clerk and asked me where I was from? And I told him from Missouri. He didn't know me and hired me. I worked for three fourths of a day and he put me to delivering goods and told me I would find the horse and delivery wagon in the coal shed and so I did. I concluded I would have a cow to milk by night and quit the clerkship and that is my experience in clerking in a store.

I went into a hardware store and the clerk jumped at me with a dignifying walk and said something, with a tone of sweet complexion? I said yes., He said what will it be? I says quinine. He says this is a hardware store. Well I says I know it He says we don't keep quinine. here. I said you don't. I took a sighing look across. Yonder is a drug store, I said, do they keep it there. I went over that away but didn't go in, didn't want any quinine.

One time I was going along a street in the west and noticed a young fellow drive up just after a rain with a fine horse and buggy had on kid gloves met some other boys there, he said isn't it a fright, in a soft tone. He looked too soft to touch light bread.

I was walking along a street in a western town and seen a middle age man tying a horse, the man I wuz with

I said to him wait a minute, he said alright. I stepped back and said to the man tying the horse want to ask you this question is it in order? He said it was, I want to know if you are from Missouri? He said no from Texas. Very well I knowed you wuz from Missouri or Texas. He said why? Because you spoke to me.

Was sitting in a hotel one time in sun flower state. I looked up all at once eaten I said is that a electric lamp? One of them guests said yes. I says I didn't know, we have gas lights in Missouri and pointed to myself.

A girl you may fall in love with you know how to tell whether she looks good to you? if she is light complected you will want to get a perpendicular look at her and if dark complected straight look.

I got in a wreck and was laid up four hundred miles from home and the hotel lady where I was taking my abode said it is too bad you are so far away from home in this condition. What do you mean by condition? You are hurt. Yes mam, I know it, I know it. She said that's what I mean. I says wont I hurt in Missouri the same as up here four hundred miles away? She said with a astonishing look yes.

One time was crossing the Panhandle of Texas border onto New Mexico and I crossed the plains on Christmas morning one little town forgot the name of it but it was on north side of track? What did you see? A band of the purtiest girls you ever did see looking right up into my face. Did you faint? No. What did they do, serenade the train, what did you say? I says I am from Missouri. What was reason she was looking at you? Because she did not know my age two reasons one is from Mo. and other is of right age I was.

I stepped out on the platform asked where the Senator

The first time I ever seen the mountains was out west.

Where was you when you last seen them? In Arkansas.

I went to Montana once. What do you think I seen?

A purty girl. Oh yes. Is that all Montana has? Oh no, but the best thing she possesses is a gurl. What for? To go to a dance. How far, from fifty to one hundred miles from where? From home. How long do they stay? Till dance is over.

The other day I seen a man take the train oh my how train.

Once I seen a R R. train stop for hour what for?

Don't know. Don't you have any idea? Yes. What wuz it? Owing to the deficiency of the engine

Do you have any idea why you see women folks and men too go to the train back east wuz asked when out west? My reply was what year did you go to Mo.?

World's fair, they didn't know how did you go horse back no mule back no under common sense then how did you go? On the train oh yes I see you could do that.

You didn't answer my question. No what was it?

Why does people, especially women make trains? I didn't know before that women makes trains. They are made in factories by skilled labor and great mechanics and great machinery.

Should have said meet trains that's what I thought.

Where? At the depot. Well I will endeavor to answer you because westerners hadn't been there already. So you see by the time the train wuz gone done gone done been there.

On the train I met a woman out on a western trip. Where are you from? she said. From Missouri. Who was she? A detective. Was you scared? No. Why? Because I wuz used to detectives. Where? In Missouri. She was, how did you know she was? Because she would keep saying how silly I am, I would keep saying you don't look it. I mistrusted she being a detective then I said in my judgment you are from Missouri but please tell me if I am not right? You are on that Mister but how did you know? She said to me because you said while ago that Jim Tom and John varned you against rattle snakes and that buffalo had done been there in the west. She said you are right. I said of course.

At one time going through one of the northern states hard for me to recollect the name of the state owing to the condition of my mind, I found my ideal you have often heard feller has one ideal in life time only one usually. Found mine on a train, she was not a pippin because she was prettier than a Missouri apple tainted enough with a collar to make her complexion shine through a reversal national makeup.

I rode one time through the south on a train without a ticket. The man of conduction, you mean conductor, come to me with looked like a hog ringer, I said what do you want? He said ticket. I said I haven't got any ticket. He said you have to have. I said who are you? He said I am the auditor and I said auditors are not on trains, he said where are they then? Attending to their duties. I am, that is what I am doing now he said. I said where is your book? He said what do you mean? and he said what do you mean? He demanded the ticket or money. I says auditors are in capitols. He laughed and said I will get your ticket, I says you won't I will give it to the conductor.

I walked into a lumber yard and said I want to see the manager. The feller said you are talking to him now. He said young man what do you want? Well I want to know if you will trade this lumber yard for a farm. He said what size farm? I said eighty to one hundred sixty acres. He laughed and said We shipped sixty four thousand dollars' worth out of here today. I said where are the wagons, and went on. Do you believe him?

Was walking with a friend in one of the cities in the west and I said to him lets go into this building. Why? he said and I said its fifteen stories high. The other day I fell eight stories in here. He looked astonished. I said I went up in a whirlimig and come down eight stories. Oh he said in an elevator I said you call em that I guess so.

The boys said I found when I was about through that it was a long, sharp tack sticking straight up in the heel of my shoe. The foot was so bad that the boys brought me a felt shoe and it felt better. The waubble of the machine caused it so that I just had to quit. The boys did hate to see me quit because I was a good Missouri hand and they put at me to have my foot amputated and I didn't know until the other day but what it meant lanced, and I find that it is to cut it off and am glad now that I didn't yield to the boys' suggestions.

I had a toothache and asked everybody I seen except statesmen, reason for that I lived in the country and didn't come in contact with them. If had better have my jaw tooth pulled or not, and some one would say yes, and some would say have it filled. You see people differ on any question. My mind is subject to change. That's the reason I suffered with my gums for three weeks for the want of a conclusion. Finally I made up my mind after consulting two doctors and two dentists conclusively. I went to a doctor. He said sit down there.

I said how Doc? He showed me how to set. I set and he come with a hog ringer, supposed to be a faucet. I said, doc, what have you got? He said sit down there. I says, what are you going to do with them there hog ringers, doc? He commenced pulling and I commenced streaching. He got taller and I got louder. I motioned to go on, fraid he would leave the tooth half cocked, which he did. I got up thinking I was at a health resort.
